Realm Reporting

Detailed insights into your ministry.

Realm reporting gives you flexibility to discover the insights that will help you understand and grow your ministry.

Problem to Solve:	Realm Reporting Solution:
Church staff often run similar reports and need to do so quickly.	Realm gives you predefined reports for your people data, giving, accounting, events, and more. These allow you to start with a template and dig deeper into details.
Church administrators have detailed reports they need to run and be able to output in multiple ways.	With Realm, you can run a custom query on any of your data at any time. You build the query to include any groups, profile fields, or other data fields in Realm, and then output the results or take action with them in any way you would like.
Church administrators don't want to build the same reports over and over.	Saving reports in Realm ensures you can access custom queries previously built and re-run, edit, or output whenever you need it.
Church administrators need to share reports with church or pastoral staff members.	Once you build a report in Realm, you can easily share that report directly in Realm with any other staff members who have access to Realm Reporting. The shared reports show in their "My Shared Reports" so they can access them as needed.
Church administrators don't want to lose recent reports they've spent time running.	Realm's Recent Report History shows you any predefined reports you've recently ran. You can download the results again saving you from having to re-run that report from the start.
