Worship Planning

Wow new visitors and continually engage members.

Effective worship planning requires the help of so many. ACS Technologies (ACST) delivers ministries the tools they need to find and place qualified volunteers, stream their worship services or other events, and so much more.

Problems to Solve:	ACST Worship Planning:
Worship leaders and pastors need to recruit, communicate with, and schedule volunteers to serve in multiple capacities.	It takes a lot of work to have a successful worship service, most of which falls on the shoulders of capable volunteers. ACST has designed solutions that help worship leaders and pastors create serving opportunities, find volunteers and match them with the right opportunity, and build and communicate schedules. We also offer integrations with top serving and volunteer management tools to support all the needs of your ministry.
Ministries need tools to share their message with the world.	How members or visitors attend worship services look different today than they have in the past. That's why ACST offers ministries tools to stream their services or events to anyone, anywhere. Whether it's for members who decide to join your services remotely, those in your community looking for a new church home, or anyone in the world who wants to connect to your ministry, ACST's solutions for streaming can help spread your message.

How ACST Serves Worship Planning:

- Recruit, communicate with, and schedule volunteers for any need in your ministry

- Allow your membership to complete their skills and interests so you know how volunteers fit with your ministry's needs

- Build serving teams so you have a single place to group and communicate with volunteers

- Create serving opportunities, link them with your teams, and share them with your congregation

- Create featured opportunities so you can communicate the most important needs in your ministry

- For larger ministries or those who need added flexibility or their worship services, integrate ACST solutions with the volunteer management tool of your choice

- Connect your membership, community, and the world to your worship services or events through custom designed streaming and website solutions
